Strategies for Engaging Youth in Sexual Violence Prevention

June 29 – 30, 2011
Conference Center at OCLC
Dublin, Ohio

Supported by :
Ohio Department of Health &
Ohio Domestic Violence Network

Funding for this conference was made possible in part by the cooperative agreement award numbers 5VF1CE001114-04 and 5US4CE001518-02 from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention through the Violence Against Women's Act. The views expressed in written conference materials or publications and by speakers or moderators do not necessarily reflect the official policies of the Department of Health and Human Services; nor does mention of trade names, commercial practices, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. Government.

Conference Speakers

Ty Sells, is an alcohol and other drug-free presenter who entertains and motivates young audiences to live drug-free lives and deal with peer pressure by looking inward to personal strengths. Using everyday experiences in a typical student's life, his humorous approach educates while it entertains and inspires. The humorous and familiar stories give those in the audience a chance to laugh while they learn; stories that give the meaning to the statement "It's funny because it's true!"

Lorien Castille, the Director of Prevention Programming for the New York State Coalition Against Domestic Violence, has been an activist and advocate for social justice for two decades. Specializing in community organizing, organizational development, prevention programming and strategic planning, She is currently responsible for New York's DELTA Project - designing activities that prevent domestic violence and that can be integrated into established coordinated community response efforts.

Lisa Sohn, is a Program Director working with Start Strong: Building Healthy Teen Relationships, a national initiative to prevent teen dating violence targeted at 11-14 year olds. For Start Strong, Ms. Sohn works with 11 diverse grantees, assessing technical assistance needs and providing strategic direction. Prior to joining Futures Without Violence (formerly Family Violence Prevention Fund), Ms. Sohn worked in public relations and political communications.

Conference Objectives

Participants will:

- Increase their capacity for working with youth
- Be able to list 3 innovative strategies or programs to engage youth in sexual violence and intimate partner violence prevention
- Identify strategies to minimize the impact of ageism and adultism which create barriers to youth engagement in sexual violence and intimate partner violence prevention

Who Should Attend?

This Conference is for sexual and domestic violence prevention educators and advocates, professionals who work with youth in ATOD prevention, youth violence prevention, pregnancy prevention, social workers, counselors, healthcare providers, community partners, and allied professionals and will find this conference a valuable learning experience.

*This conference has been planned to support the implementation of the CDC funded sexual violence prevention plan; agencies interested in seeking future primary prevention funding will benefit from applying the content to agency prevention planning.

Conference Credits

Participants who attend both days of the conference will qualify for 11.5 CEUs for social workers and counselors.
